Lumumba Freed After Being Held Two Hours

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Patrice Lumumba came roaring back through the streets of Leopoldville shouting, "Victory," from a military jeep Monday night, only two hours after he was arrested and then freed. The ousted premier sped to Leopoldville radio station after a tour of the African communes but was not allowed to speak. What happened at Camp Leopold, where Lumumba had been taken by army troops, could not be learned immediately. Lumumba was in custody less than two hours. When he reached the radio station he said, "I am not arrested. The people are with me."

Herter To Speak Ahead Of Khrush

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States intends to land the first punch in the diplomatic bout of words with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev before the U. N. Assembly—but it won't open with a bruising wallop.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, as U.S. spokesman, has asked to speak Sept. 22—a day before Khrushchev's widely-heralded appearance.

Administration officials who disclosed this Monday, as Khrushchev sailed toward New York, said Herter undoubtedly would be granted his request since he represents the host country.

Herter is drafting a major foreign policy speech for the occasion, ranging over such East-West differences as disarmament, nuclear tests, the Congo, and perhaps even the U2 and RB47 aerial spying charges.

The secretary's address will be moderately phrased, officials said. In hope Khrushchev will take this as a cue to keep his remarks in the same tone.

But, privately, most administration officials expected the free-wheeling Soviet leader to fire some tough language at American policies.

If he does, then Herter and other allied spokesmen will reply in kind, to keep Khrushchev from stealing the international propaganda spotlight without challenge.

By adopting a restrained, businesslike approach initially, Herter hopes to make it more difficult for Khrushchev to "debate" U.N. discussion with bitterly worded invective, threats and boasts.

Soviet authorities here still have given the State Department no clue as to how long Khrushchev will stay, where he will reside and what he plans to do.

Dr. Boehm Confirmed By Senate

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Republican-controlled Senate, after months of delay, Monday unanimously confirmed the appointment of Dr. Charles H. Boehm to another four-year term as superintendent of Public Instruction.

Boehm's confirmation—by a 47-0 vote—was the first major Senate action after the Legislature returned from a summer recess.

Gov. Lawrence, a Democrat, sent the name of the 57-year-old educator to the Senate several weeks ago. Even though Boehm himself is a Republican, the Senate majority held up his confirmation so that, leaders explained, they could investigate his policies.

Boehm recognized in a recent interview that his policies and program might be considered controversial in the eyes of legislators.

"It is natural," he said, for people to be suspicious of revolutionary changes.

Boehm was first appointed superintendent by former Gov. George M. Leader, also a Democrat. He was at that time superintendent of Bucks County schools.

As state superintendent, Boehm administers a school system which provides public instruction for approximately 1,900,000 children.

Area Lashed By 5-Inch Rain, Winds

WITH THE exception of a few major problems which caused much concern but no real damage yesterday, the fringing effects of Hurricane Donna resulted in little destruction to the Pocono region.

Low-lying areas throughout the county were flooded but no serious conditions were noticeable or reported.

The Daily Record rain gauge measured 5.04 inches of rainfall in the 36-hour period ending at 5 p.m. yesterday. The heaviest downpour came during the previous 13 hours, beginning at 4 a.m. yesterday, when the gauge recorded a total of 3.44 inches.

Civilian Defense units in the county reported that in an 18-hour period up to 4 p.m. yesterday, they had registered 4.00 inches of rain. The downpour, accompanied by swirling winds at times from 40 to 42 miles per hour, caused a four-foot rise in the Brodheads, Pocono and McMichaels Creeks. All were contained within their banks, however, CD reported yesterday.

The most concern from the effects of the hurricane came yesterday afternoon when first reports indicated that Pocono Dam, near Camp Big Pocono, in Poplar Valley was under tremendous pressure and threatened to burst.

Emergency crews were summoned to the dam and opened a 14-inch drainage valve that relieved the situation somewhat. However, the CD kept standby observation in case additional rain would create a new problem, according to Summer Bossler Jr., flood warning assistant for Monroe County CD.

Residents of Poplar and Cherry Valleys were alerted of the situation and took precautionary measures in case of a break. Several spots along the dam showed signs of breaching.

N. Courtland St., in the vicinity of the old school building in East Stroudsburg, had some street flooding as did sections of First, Second and parts of N. Fifth Sts. in Stroudsburg.

All along the Brodheads Creek, in particular where present construction of flood controls are being made, it appeared as a "sea of mud." The river overflowed its banks in certain sections, but for the most part was well contained on its course.

Certain sections of Route 611 north from Stroudsburg proper showed flooding. In one area, near Stroud Shopping Center, a State Highway Department grader widened a drainage creek so that it could carry a greater volume of water.

In spots along Route 611 south in Delaware Water Gap, runoff from the high sections of the town caused some flooding in the main thoroughfare.

The Cherry Valley road from Delaware Water Gap also showed effects of the storm as water came down the mountain. Broken tree branches were in evidence.

As the rains began to diminish late yesterday afternoon, the damage in the area appeared to have also lessened. Pocono Creek, like the Brodheads, was high and muddy as it moved swiftly downstream. No serious washouts were reported.

Alarms were aired in the Bushkill area when the rains had struck their heaviest during mid-afternoon. People who had anchored boats along the Delaware River took precautionary measures and hauled them farther inland as the river started to climb.

River waters rose about one foot during a two-hour period.

But county CD officials reported at 4 p.m. that the Delaware River was at half bank and said it would recede during the night and would gradually return to half-bank position today.

The biggest threat of flooding along the Delaware River depended on how much precipitation had struck upper New York State area. The heaviest runoff of water into the river is from this territory.

Locally many streets became flooded as drainage facilities couldn't contain the big onslaught. As the rain slowly receded, the highways began to clear themselves of any water conditions that prevailed.

Two spots in East Stroudsburg were hit by the drainage condition. Flat areas near Walnut St. had surface water when drains couldn't handle the oversupply. Another was just off Hancock St., where minor flooding occurred but caused no real damage.

Cells in the Wind Gap, Pen Argyl and other Slate Belt areas were still being pumped out last night—the aftermath of yesterday's and Sunday's heavy rainfall.

Wind velocity throughout the day ran generally from 20 to 30 miles per hour and reached a maximum of 40-42 MPH at about 2 p.m., according to Walter Holl, weather observer at Mount Pocono.

The winds came from the Northeast, but late in the afternoon, approached a north-northwest direction. They tore down some tree limbs and caused some power interruptions, but no heavy property damage.

In comparison, during the period of Hurricane Diane in August 1955, the wind velocity reached maximums of 70 and 72 miles per hour.

Pennsy Strike Settled

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Pennsylvania railroad strike ended in its twelfth day under a settlement hammered out by negotiators early Monday morning. The trains will run Tuesday.

Six hours after a federal mediator stepped from a hotel room to announce, "The strike is over," the 20,000 members of the two striking unions ratified the agreement.

The unions are the Transport Workers Union and the System Federation.

The dispute, which stopped the nation's largest railroad for the first time in its 114-year history, was mainly over work rules and job security. Wages were not an issue.

Quill Comments
The strikers were nonoperating employees, those responsible for maintenance of equipment on the 10,000 miles of PRR track rolling through 13 states and the District of Columbia. Some 52,000 other railroad employees, however, were furloughed.

Michael J. Quill TWU president, said the strike and settlement might be a turning point for up-to-date labor relations on the nation's railroads. He claimed the union won protection against the PRR contracting to outside firms work that PRR employees can handle themselves; a severance pay plan; protection for mechanics' helpers against abolition of their jobs; and a rule that defines specifically an employee's job.

The issue described by the union as the toughest to work out, pipefitting, was resolved in a five-page agreement to meet the problem job-by-job as it arises in actual operation. It involves who does certain pipe work, the System Federation members or members of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees.

Quill said that the union also received assurance the railroad would drop law suits totalling $14 million against the union. The agreement totaled more than 30 points, 26 of which had been agreed on in negotiations before the Sept. 1 strike. All touched on job security and work rules.

Nixon Opens Campaign With Ike's Blessing

By The Associated Press
Republican Richard M. Nixon, back on the job of running for president, pledged Monday he'll make "the best campaign, the most intensive campaign, this country has ever seen."

He set out, with the personal blessing of President Eisenhower, on 9,000 miles of travel through 15 states in six days.

About the same time, Democratic nominee John F. Kennedy was carrying to a meeting of Protestant ministers in Texas, and to the nation, this pronouncement on the religious issue:

"I believe in an America where the separation of church and state is absolute — where no Catholic prelate would tell a president (should he be Catholic) how to act, and no Protestant minister would tell his parishioners for whom to vote."

Kennedy said in his statement, for the Greater Houston Ministerial Association that "because I am a Catholic, and no Catholic has ever been elected president, the real issues of the campaign have been obscured — perhaps deliberately — in some quarters less responsible than this."

Far more critical issues, he said, include the spread of Communism, "the humiliating treatment of our President and vice president by those who no longer respect our power" and "an America with too many slums, with too few schools, and too late to the moon and outer space."

As Nixon said it, there is a single overriding issue: Who is better equipped to lead in "keeping the peace without surrender and extending freedom throughout the world?"

From Baltimore, Nixon flew to Indianapolis where a warm sun and crowds of thousands welcomed him. Dallas was next on the jet campaign schedule and Texas gave him a roaring welcome. San Francisco was his last stop of the day.

New England Spared Heavy Storm Damage

BOSTON (AP)—Hurricane Donna, born in the Caribbean Sea, blustered ashore in New England Monday night and was dwindling to a rain storm after smashing the mid-Atlantic coast with relentless savagery.

Considerably subdued after spreading death and destruction along the coast, Donna moved through northern New England on a northeasterly course with maximum winds of 75 miles an hour.

Donna came ashore near Bridgeport, Conn., and sprawled out on a 120-mile front extending from Connecticut to New Hampshire. The Blue Hills Observatory near Boston reported gusts up to 140 m.p.h. and Block Island, R.I., had gusts to 125 m.p.h.

Within six hours after heading inland, Donna's power diminished sharply and damage in New England was termed relatively small.

Killed by the storm were 135 persons, 20 of them in the United States.

Weather experts, in marking its prior passage from Virginia to New York, called Donna one of the most dangerous hurricanes ever to strike that area. But a well-in-advance alert to its shrieking winds and surging 10-foot tides kept damage and loss of life to a surprisingly low level.

Limited Flooding
States of emergency had been declared for Rhode Island and Massachusetts in advance of the storm. But dangerous flooding failed to materialize as peak tides subsided before the full brunt of the hurricane was felt.

In New York City, more than 2,000 pupils were successfully evacuated from 11 public schools surrounded by flooded streets. Nearly 300 additional students were marooned without food or electricity in two other schools, one of them an island in four feet of water. But the youngsters were rescued well before nightfall.

The hurricane blustered along at a brisk forward rate, moving at about 40 m.p.h. up the coast.

Weather observers said the storm was roughly that of the great 1938 hurricane—which claimed nearly 600 lives in New England and inflicted up to half a billion dollars in damage. Present-day weather forecasting, however, permitted advance precautions to lessen the damaging impact of the storm.

Highest Tides
As the hurricane eased its grip on New York City in late afternoon, Weather Bureau Chief Ernest J. Christie announced:

"This will go down in history as one of the biggest hurricanes that ever hit New York and the metropolitan area. This is the highest I have ever seen the tide here."

Up to eight inches of rain poured down. It was driven almost laterally by hurricane winds in excess of 80 m.p.h.—outriders of the 130 m.p.h. force of the big storm. Inland areas all along the coast were alerted for flash floods.

Thousands of evacuees streamed inland from the battered South Shore of Long Island and from the Connecticut coast. Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff ordered Connecticut residents to evacuate.

To the north of New York, the Connecticut shoreline was evacuated from Greenwich to Stonington, almost the entire coastal length of the state. Tides up to 10 feet were forming, threatening to exceed records set by 1938 and 1954 hurricanes.

Pier Damaged
At Atlantic City, N.J., a section of the resort's famed "million dollar pier" was ripped off and parts of its wide boardwalk mangled.

Along Maryland's eastern shore, hundreds of late-season vacationers took refuge in public buildings as the hurricane mauled resort cottages and motels.

The Coast Guard reported mariners' calls for help on the average of every two minutes from boats torn adrift.

Crop damage from Florida northward was inestimable.

Philadelphia had a six-inch rainfall and gale winds.

Military and civilian aircraft by the score were flown inland to escape the coastal brunt of the hurricane.

NO IT'S NOT AN ARMY DUCK—This is a plain ordinary truck splashing through water on Park Ave., Stroudsburg, yesterday at the planned approach for the Stroudsburg Thruway. March On Cerebral Palsy GIFTS in advance of the "53 Minute March on Cerebral Palsy" are coming into the United Cerebral Palsy office in gratifying sums, it is reported by Mrs. Vincent Marek, county chairman. The drive will officially open tomorrow.

"We are really delighted," Mrs. Marek said, "by the response to our campaign call for funds." If this is an indication of the support that is to come during the 53 Minute March which will take place Wednesday we are confident that our goal of $1200 will be attained. However, the chairman warned, "we must not be over-confident. We must continue our efforts without let-down. This is only the start. Our committee as well as all the other committees have much work ahead to attain our goal." "It is evident," Mrs. Marek remarked, "that there is a growing awareness of the problem of cerebral palsy. People are determined that an answer must be found to the mystery of this crippling, and they are determined to provide science with the funds to carry on all-important research wherein lies the answer, as well as continue to support the medical, educational and rehabilitation services now being conducted by United Cerebral Palsy of Monroe County.

Former Area Owner Of Resort Dies

FUNERAL services were held yesterday in Milwaukee, Wis., for Mrs. Helen Hayne, former owner and operator of Encore Farms on Route 209 two miles north of Marshalls Creek.

Mrs. Hayne died last Thursday in New York City after an illness. A native of Milwaukee, Mrs. Hayne was an actress and dancer on the New York stage for a number of years before coming to Monroe County about 1948. She operated Encore Farms until four years ago, when she sold the resort to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Muller and returned to New York.

She leaves one son, Russell Hayne; one sister, Miss Anne Straty; two brothers, Stephen and Edward Straty, and three grandchildren.

Interment took place yesterday in Holy Cross Cemetery, Milwaukee, after requiem mass in St. John de Nepomuc Church.

Man Hurt In Accident

TROOPER Peter A. Sabrinsky of the Mount Pocono State Police reported the investigation of an accident approximately six miles west of Mount Pocono on Route 940, near Naomi Lake, yesterday at 2:45 p.m.

Involved in the accident was Rev. Edward T. Horn, 72, Tannersville, and John Raimond, 24, of Kingston.

Raimond was removed to Monroe County General Hospital where he was examined and released. He was taken to the hospital by the Tobyhanna Township Ambulance.

Trooper Sabrinsky reported Rev. Horn was traveling west on Route 490 and was about to make a left turn when Raimond who did not see any signal attempted to pass.

Raimond saw Rev. Horn start to turn and applied his brakes but due to the heavy rain which made the road slippery, his car slid and struck Rev. Horn's vehicle in the right rear, bounced into a guard rail and then went down a slight embankment.

The trooper did not give any estimate of the damages to either car.

GOLDEN DEED FOR DAY — Bernard Thomas, principal of the Pleasant Valley School Jointure, is presented the first book for the school's new library. A $20,000 goal to equip the building is underway. Making the presentation of "The Golden Anniversary Book of Scouting," are Jerome Blakeslee, Jr., and Robert Davenport, of Boy Scouts of America, Troop 98 and George Dorshimer, of Cub Scout Pack 301. PV Starts Book Fund Drive

A PARAMOUNT issue of our times will be given a place of importance with the opening of the new Pleasant Valley School Jointure in Brodheadsville. The school will officially open on Sept. 21.

Reading, the pastime of parents, will be offered to the young people of the West End as interested community residents, parents and teachers met last evening to discuss plans for a Book Fund Drive.

The sum of $20,000 will be the goal for the secondary phase of a project to stock the new 140-shelf library in the new school building.

Approximately 4,200 new books will be needed in the new library.

Interested citizens from Saylorsburg, Brodheadsville, Gilbert, Effort and Kresgeville formed the nucleus of a community which for the next 30 days will contact foundations, national, state and county businesses and local benefactors in an endeavor to gain assistance in the shelf-stocking program.

Temporary officers elected to head the drive are: Robert Hoffner, president; Mrs. Irvin Dorshimer, vice president; Mrs. Jeanette McGarvey, secretary; and William Fisher, treasurer.

Permanent name plaques will be erected to shield donors of $100 or more. Check should be made out to Pleasant Valley Library Book Fund and mailed to "Booker" Box 20,000, Brodheadsville, Pa.

The first book donated to the library was "The Golden Anniversary Book of Scouting" presented to school principal Bernard Thomas at the meeting. Jerome Blakeslee Jr., and Robert Davenport, acting on behalf of Troop 98, Boy Scouts of America and George Dorshimer, in behalf of Cub Scout Pack 301, made the presentation.

M. A. Zellner, of the Zellner Book Service, spoke briefly to the group during last night's meeting.

Help Solicited

Perhaps the most painful sight most of us ever see is a crippled youngster. We are stirred by the plight of a child struggling to walk or to talk.

Very often our immediate reaction is one of concern.

However, concern alone is useless to the handicapped. It is passive reaction. Pity does not help a child shed crutches or braces, nor does it provide rehabilitation.

Concern plus help does, however! Right now, United Cerebral Palsy of Monroe County needs your help to maintain its program of services for the cerebral palsied children and adults in the county.

United Cerebral Palsy's "53 Minute March on Cerebral Palsy" will be conducted tomorrow night. One of your neighbors or friends will call on you on that date for a contribution.

Make your gift a substantial one so that the organization can bring a greater measure of assistance to a still greater number of CP victims.

The assistance you give towards this program is a gratifying and productive substitute for the one thing the CP's don't want—pity.

Why Merit System Fails

Mention the merit system of paying school teachers and you stir a hornet's nest.

Educators (a few pro but mostly con) come buzzing out of the old school hive with stingers poised, ready to kill anyone who uses this frightful phrase.

Merit system pay means merely that you pay a good teacher more than a mediocre teacher — without reference to seniority, longevity, tenure or additional chores.

This is the way industry pays its executive personnel. But teachers (even good ones) seem content to settle for secure mediocrity rather than permit their supervisors to judge their classroom work.

Such a fear may be well-founded, for educators by stressing the unique professional aspects of their trade, have put a premium on administrative know-how rather than subject matter and pure teaching technique.

Witness the plight of a young teacher who has landed his first job and wants to take graduate work. If his subject is English he may proceed in this field, but not easily.

All pressures are directed to channel him into educational techniques—to make him a supervisor, a special problems expert, an administrator — anything but a better informed and more competent English teacher.

If you doubt these pressures, note that he may get educational subsidies which will cut the cost of his graduate work in half, providing he takes his work in the school of education rather than the school of arts and sciences.

No wonder the profession fears the merit system. The very persons who have the authority to judge them have been trained to be administrators, not better teachers.

It would appear that the teaching profession is in a blind but determined race to achieve status for the profession of education even if it must ruin every teacher to do so.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Congo's Lumumba

Self-government for a nation, as for an individual, involves a long tradition and habit of self-restraint.

Those who possess power may use it for any purpose, good or evil, beneficial or harmful.

The possessor of power must be restrained by conscience, by moral law, by the laws of his nation, by the will of the people. If he is governed by whim or by the brutality of his nature or by his private interpretation of reason, either tyranny or anarchy will exist.

The Congo is an example of what can happen to a people with no tradition of self-government. There never was a nation called the Congo until the Europeans created it for their own purposes. The Congo is a river which passes through an area that contained many tribes in varying degrees of savagery.

The Belgians and the French created the political entity called the Congo. The French part was governed according to French ideas and is now orderly; the Belgian part was largely held in subjection and its development was very slow.

The assumption that all people are equal, even if it were true, does not imply that all people possess the same abilities, the same capacity for self-government.

And whereas it may be said that it is a fundamental principle that every people has a right to a government of its choice, it is not true that any people has a right to disturb the entire world, to lay a basis for war, to stir up strife.

Against the bandit nation, the world must rise in self-defense as society always takes measures against brigands.

Whoever Lumumba is, he is a nuisance. The Congo cannot be isolated because Lumumba, like Castro, chooses to use his country as a pawn in a power play. His assumption undoubtedly is that by taking advantage of such opportunities as might arise from a contest between great nations over the Congo, he can, in some way, benefit.

Unfortunately, Lumumba cannot, as Mao Tse-tung could, swiftly establish an organ of power within his own country where his authority is contested. Nor could he establish such personal respect as Sukarno did in Indonesia.

Nor does he have the history among his own people that Nehru has in India. Lumumba's problems, therefore, are complex and he has not been able to form a union of tribes and provinces swiftly. He may not last unless supported by a foreign power such as Soviet Russia.

Time is extremely important in the early stages of forming a nation. The 13 colonies which became the United States were not the only territories on the American continent. Eastern Canada, particularly Quebec, was the same kind of a British colony that New York was, except that Quebec's European background was originally French and New York's was Dutch.

In a word, the more perfect union did not apply even to all the British colonies on the North American continent; it was limited to 13 like-minded areas which joined into a Federation and which made rapid strides toward some form of self-government, culminating in the Constitution.

Even so, the Federation could not become a nation until after the War Between the States when the question of secession was settled; that is, that an area once entering the Union may never leave it. It is that principle which formed us a nation.

The Congo requires such statesmen as Jefferson and Madison to move forward to union swiftly. It requires a man of wisdom like Franklin and of leadership such as Washington. Lumumba does not seem to be the type, as Castro is not the type.

Sun Yat-sen, the father of the Republic of China, strongly influenced by American ideas which he absorbed in Honolulu, was the self-sacrificing leader whom even his enemies respected.

This could not be said of Lenin or Stalin and certainly not of Lumumba or Castro. Men must be respected unless they govern through fear.

Therefore the Congo is in its current confusion. No personality, no force, no concept exists to bring together not irreconcilable but differing peoples. Such a disorderly area in the heart of Africa or any continent can disturb the world at this sensitive moment when Soviet Russia is functioning imperialistically against all the world, even against its Communist partners.

The Pennsylvania Story

Contest Watched

Harrisburg — There may be the big election contest this Fall to see who is destined to be the next President of the United States — but there is dramatic personae as well on the local scene right here in Pennsylvania.

Much of this will be lost of course in the general confused overall picture — but there are localized instances that have all the dramatic and picturesque aspects of the presidential runoff itself.

For example, down in the southwestern part of the state in the 36th State Senatorial District — comprising Bedford, Fulton and Somerset counties — a bruiser is shaping up that actually is of concern not only in that particular district but statewide as well.

This is the story there although there are others like it in one way or another: Back in 1954 two virtual unknowns ran for the State Senate seat. One was a Republican by name of J. Irving Whalley, of Windber in Somerset County. He had to his credit however two terms in the State House of Representatives (1951-54) from his home county.

Opposing Republican candidate Whalley was Joseph N. Cascio, a complete unknown and an attorney in Somerset. When the votes were counted, this was the score: Whalley — 23,635; Cascio — 23,574. Democrat Cascio lost by only 61 votes! (A special recount of the votes was made at the time.)

Four years later successful 1954 Republican candidate Whalley decided to seek reelection to his Senate seat. Again GOP senatorial candidate Whalley was successful. As of mid-point in his second term with full plans to serve out the remainder of the four-year stretch.

A single event however changed this course. Following the spring primaries this year Congressman Douglas Elliot, of Chambersburg died while in office, leaving an unexpected vacancy in the 18th congressional district.

Senator Whalley was endorsed by Republicans to seek the congressional seat — but leaving his State Senate seat vacant. Republicans selected State Assemblyman Stanley G.

Stroup, of Bedford to run for the senatorial post.

Democrats selected Joseph N. Cascio. Whichever candidate wins will fill the remaining two years of the Whalley term.

Here is the interesting facet though:

Back in 1954 when senatorial aspirant Cascio lost to more successful aspirant Whalley by 61 votes, the three-county district had a registration of only 25,337 Democrats to 35,790 Republicans, or a GOP registration lead of 10,453.

Six years later, as of the April 1960 primaries (later registration figures are not yet available) the registration figures run like this in the three-county district: Democrats — 30,643; Republicans — 32,644, or a GOP edge of only 2,001.

With that 61-vote loss margin in mind of six years ago — and with the GOP edge in the district already cut by nearly three-fourths — will Democrat Cascio this time be able to upset the GOP tables?

If he does, it could well be the deciding vote that may turn the State Senate into the Democratic column for the first time in 20 years and for only the third time in nearly 100 years!

The Allen-Scott Report

How To Fight Crime

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — The first big TV debate between the presidential candidates is going to raise at least one surprise issue — should the next President establish a national crime commission.

Sen. John Kennedy is planning to propose that such a commission be set up to fight the growing infiltration of the underworld in business and labor.

Vice President Nixon is going to oppose the commission plan, recommending instead that the Justice Department be used to launch a vigorous campaign to break the growing grip of racketeers on these segments of the economy.

These are the opposing positions that the two presidential candidates plan to take in their first face-to-face TV debate, according to separate "position papers" now circulating among their top campaign strategists.

The background papers were drafted by Nixon and Kennedy and their advisors to prepare the candidates for the Sept. 26 debate that will deal mainly with domestic issues. This debate, which is expected to be watched in the homes of more than 20 million people, will originate in Chicago.

Senator Kennedy's "position paper" reveals that the Democratic presidential candidate plans to call for the establishment of the crime commission to spotlight cases where racketeers have taken over labor unions and corporations, and local law enforcement agencies are either unable or unwilling to act.

Such a commission would gather information on the top criminal leaders of the country, keep a close surveillance on their activities, and disseminate information to local and state law enforcement agencies as well as the FBI. It would not have law enforcement powers, but would act as an intelligence gathering agency.

Senator Kennedy will stress that a majority of the Senate Labor Rackets Committee, of which he is a member, favors his crime commission proposal.

The "Other Side" — The "position paper" of Vice President Nixon states that the Republican presidential candidate supports the position of Attorney General William Rogers that the creation of a crime commission is undesirable.

Nixon will contend that the commission would be a costly accessory to already existing establishments such as the Justice Department and the FBI. Also the Kennedy proposal is an attempt on the part of the federal government to inject itself into local and state police affairs.

As a counter proposal, the Vice President will call for a beefing up of the Organized Crime and Racketeering section in the Justice Department.

Note: Before the end of the campaign, Vice President Nixon plans to make a major speech proposing the establishment of a foreign policy advisory board that would serve the President and Congress. The proposal will be Nixon's answer to the group of foreign policy advisors that Senator Kennedy recently appointed.

Air Blockade — Communist East Germany is training a special squadron of its Air Force for interference with Western commercial air traffic in the three Berlin air corridors.

The 25-Jet squadron is based at Kottbus in East Germany. It was formed just after Soviet Premier Khrushchev blew up the Paris summit meeting with his U-2 plane charges against the U.S.

According to captured Communist documents now in the hands of the State Department the pilots are being trained to force down commercial airlines in the corridors without injury to their occupants. The procedure calls for the firing of warning machinegun bursts and then forcing the airliners to land on preselected airfields in East Germany.

At these airfields the passengers and crews of the Western airliners will be subjected to normal customs and identification checks which are applied to western surface travel to and from Berlin.

Soviet experts in the State Department believe that it is the Communist intention to conduct the force down operations in order to exercise East German "air space sovereignty."

Soviet Premier Khrushchev is reported prepared to tell the Western powers including the U.S., that Western airliner traffic is illegal, and that such traffic must submit to the same East German controls as does surface traffic.

The East German air-space control scheme is now being carefully studied by top U.S. officials to determine what action will be taken to counter it.

There are no agreements of any type guaranteeing Western commercial air travel in the corridors. The corridors originally were established solely for Western military traffic and such civil air traffic as was required for the "support and convenience" of the occupation forces.

Health Column

Hypnotic Pain

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Let me tell you about an interesting experiment in which the right hand did not know what the left hand was doing — and the right hand didn't like it.

It involves the use of hypnosis.

The experiment was conducted by a Syracuse, N.Y., psychiatrist. He has certain reservations about the use of hypnosis to prevent or relieve pain.

He reports that, during hypnosis, pain is not relieved in the sense of being minimized or abolished, but rather is denied or repressed. He bases his opinion on an experiment conducted with a 20-year-old male college student.

Automatic Writing

During the course of four hypnotic interviews, the student developed the ability of automatic writing. In other words his right hand was able to write anything it wanted. It was not subject to the control or restrictions of the conscious personality.

The subject was told in advance that his arm would be pricked several times and that he was to say whether he felt anything.

Using hypnosis, it was suggested to the student that he would not feel any pain in his left arm or hand. The arm was then pricked, but the student apparently felt nothing. He even asked the doctor, "When are you going to begin?"

However, the right arm did feel something. The doctor reported that from the moment the pricking began, the right hand began to write: "Ouch, you're hurting me."

Pain Is Perceived

This experiment shows, according to the recent article in the Archives of General Psychiatry, that, despite hypnotic anesthesia and denial of pain by the conscious personality, the pain was perceived and experienced as unpleasant, and evoked a negative reaction in one portion of the subject's total personality.

Or, to put it a bit more simply, the pain is there despite hypnosis. And it hurts at least one portion of the body, although, except in such cases as this experiment, the suffering portion cannot express itself.

Just Between Us --

—By Bobby Westbrook

It was a wonderful morning for sleeping; and that's the nicest thing you could say about the weather yesterday. Cold, wet and generally miserable, people calling the Daily-Record sounded as gloomy as the day.

I'm sure it was sheer pessimism which caused the committee to cancel the Garden Club's flower show since, after the arrangements I've seen the members make using dried grasses, weeds and leaves, I'm convinced they could have put on a flower show with no flowers at all.

But in the face of the pervading gloom, everybody seemed to be having trouble just keeping their eyes open let alone making bright conversation in public gatherings, and a trip to the store to replenish the bread and milk was so much of a chore that the thought of lugging flowers and containers and accessories around was more than they could endure.

The Pollyannas who insisted, with justice, that Monroe County was fortunate in suffering no more than a slight discomfort from the hurricane, got nothing but black looks from their wet-footed friends.

There seems to be an immediate and direct relationship between the feet and the head, and cold, wet feet curdles the disposition faster than milk in a thunderstorm.

And, I notice ruefully, it didn't take me long to get back to talking about the weather. In Italy, the weather was so uniformly fine that nobody talked about it at all. It was something you took for granted.

At home it seems impossible to avoid the weather which changes the social calendar, determines whether or not a scheduled program will be given and how many people will be there to hear it, what you will wear, and, very often, how you will feel.

Which has certain advantages, a little difficult to see yesterday, but there. Weather in the temperate zone can be a challenge, a change, and, at its best, better than vitamins for pepping up the ambition. Which couldn't happen too soon for some of us.

Marriage Education Course Open

Tonight the first session of the "Education for Marriage" Course will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. in the Ladies Lounge of the YMCA. Rev. Charles W. Eehman, president of the Monroe County Ministerium, will serve as Program Director for the series which is open to all engaged and newly married couples in Monroe County. The discussions will be presented each Tuesday night from now until October 4th.

The course, now in its second year, was established to fill Monroe County's need for Pre-Marital Counseling. While many agencies offer counseling services to individual couples, and Pre-Care conferences are held by the Catholic Church, there has been no co-ordinated marriage course in the county in which couples could discuss broad areas of marriage and specific problems.

Rev. Harold C. Eaton will lead the opening discussion tonight on "The Spiritual Values of Marriage."

Other speakers during the course will include J. L. Cohen on "Money and Budgeting"; Mrs. Robert P. Mekeel on "Interpersonal Relationships"; and the team of Dr. Mary Hunsicker, Dr. Sherwood Samet and Thomas Knapp on "Sexual Harmony in Marriage."

There are still a few vacancies left and couples interested may call their minister or the YMCA today to register. A fee of $2 per couple for the series is being charged.

The Wyckoff Shopper

The "friendly store" A.B. Wyckoff STROUBSBURG, PA.

A dog may be man's best friend, but most women will go along with the song that says diamonds are a woman's. Dogs are fine, but they bark—and they have to be fed, pampered, and cared for, while, it is assumed, diamonds (if you have enough of the right size) will care for you in your old age, and they don't bark to annoy the neighbors, or take hunks out of the mailman's leg. Also, diamonds are very useful. If you have any glass around you'd like to cut, they can do it!

All things considered you can see why I was excited the other afternoon when Arthur Widmer called to me, "Did Pete Wyckoff find you? He wants you to see his collection of diamonds and write a story."

"His collection of DIAMONDS?" I repeated. "What diamonds?"

"Oh, I don't know," A. A. said. "The Hope diamond for one—we're going to have a display in the window. He's probably still upstairs in advertising—why don't you ask him?"

When I arrived Pete wasn't there, but the diamonds were—carefully cradled in black velvet-lined trays. And what an array! One case contained three of the nine gems cut from the largest diamond ever discovered, the Cullinan which weighed 2,106 metric carats—one and a third pounds. Of these nine diamonds the collection at Wyckoff's includes replicas of Cullinan I, "The Great Star of Africa" which is the largest cut diamond in the world, weighing 530 carats and is set in the royal sceptre of the British Empire; Cullinan II, weighing 309 carats, now in the Imperial State Crown, and Cullinan IX, a pear shaped stone weighing 92 carats, set in a ring which Queen Elizabeth inherited from her grandmother, Queen Mary.

The other tray contained fifteen stones, weighing a grand total of 1830 carats, the smallest gems being the Polar Star and the Pasha of Egypt, each of which weighs 40 carats, and the largest being the Grand Mogul, a magnificent dome weighing 280 carats. This Mogul intrigues me... but if it were mine, I'd be tempted to wear the rounded part upright to show the stone's great depth. Pete says this is wrong—you display the flat surface so, upon looking into the stone, you can see all the facets and the light they reflect. Certainly the Mogul is as deep as a well... heavy as a paperweight.

The big surprise in this tray was the Hope Diamond, once the property of the late Evelyn Walsh McLean, and now, according to Pete, on view at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C. I had always heard this described as a blue diamond, but somehow I wasn't prepared for the shade of blue. It's deep blue like a Bromo Seltzer bottle. The story goes that during the war, Mrs. McLean would call upon veterans in hospitals, and when they asked to see the 45 carat gem which she always wore about her neck, she would loosen the chain and TOSS it to them, across the room. This, I think, the height of being casual about one's possessions!

Frankly, I am very impressed with the collection, all pieces of which are the same in size and cut as the genuine stones. But I wouldn't want any of the genuine articles. I may be nuttier than a fruit cake, but I'd settle for the copies, and be quite content. Owned by British Overseas Air Corporation, these are most interesting... so do take advantage of the opportunity to see them on display in the window at our Main entrance during their stay in Stroudsburg. The collection itself has great value... but just imagine what the total value of the genuine gems would be! Breathtaking!

Donna May Wreck Larker Bat Hopes

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Donna, a strong hitter in her own league, may wreck Norm Larker's chances of winning the National League batting championship.

Donna Kayos Most Sports Schedules

By The Associated Press
HURRICANE Donna threw a knockout punch at most of the Eastern sports schedule Monday, forcing postponement of race track meetings, a baseball game, golf tournament and the national tennis championship.

Aqueduct Race Track in New York, the Atlantic City, N. J., track and Lincoln Downs at Lincoln, R.I. were among the first thoroughbred tracks to close down for the day. Maine's Scarborough Downs soon followed and opening of 12-day meeting at Bel Air, Md., was delayed 24 hours.

Opening Action In Poc. Bowling

OPENING night's schedule for the Pocono Major Bowling League calls for the following action. The games will be played at Colonial Lanes beginning at 7 p.m. tonight.

THE POCONO Mountain League will meet Sept. 19 at 8 p.m. in Green Gables, Gilbert.

schedule. The Dodgers have only 13 games left to play and Larker, pacing the circuit with a .332 average, has 423 total appearances. He needs 47 to qualify for the title. Total appearances include official times at bat plus bases on balls, sacrifices and hit by pitches.

385 Official Times
The left-handed hitting first baseman, who rarely faces southpaw pitching, has 385 official at bats plus 28 walks, nine sacrifices and one hit by pitch.

The hurricane caused the postponement of Monday night's Dodgers-Phillies game in Philadelphia, setting up a two-night doubleheader Tuesday. If the two games are unable to be played because of the weather, Larker's hopes will be dampened further.

The Dodgers and Phils are not slated to meet again after Tuesday.

Larker collected nine hits in 33 tries last week and dropped six points. Dick Groat of Pittsburgh out for the season with a fractured left wrist, is second with a .325 mark. Despite his injury Groat has more than the required plate appearances.

Roberto Clemente, also of the league-leading Pirates, moved up one notch to third at .320 while San Francisco's Willie Mays slumped six points to .318 and fell to fourth. Mays had nine hits in 38 tries.

In the American League, pistol Pete Runnels of Boston gained ground on the slumping runner-up, Al Smith of Chicago. Runnels tallied off a single point to .322 and Smith dropped six points to .314. Each had seven hits, but Runnels batted only 22 times to Smith's 31.

Lemon Top Challenger
Jim Lemon of Washington rushed up to challenge Roger Maris of the New York Yankees for the AL home run and runs batted in leads. Lemon hit three homers and drove in 11 runs, giving him 37 home runs and 97 rbi. Maris is the top man in both departments with 38 circuit blows and 101 runs batted in.

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs paces the National League in homers with 39 and rbi, 109. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee has 37 home runs and 108 runs batted in. Eddie Mathews of the Braves had a good week with five homers and 15 rbi and is in third place in both categories with 36 and 106, respectively.

Yank Athletes Overconfident?

ROME (AP) — A Soviet Olympic official said Monday some of America's setbacks in the 1960 games were due to over confidence. He cited high jumper John Thomas as the paramount example.

"Our philosophy in sport is never to be satisfied with ourselves," said Len Kazpinski, international Olympic committee man on the Soviet Olympic delegation.

'60 Olympics Brings In $5.6 Million

ROME (AP) — The 1960 Olympics brought in an unprecedented $5.6 million in gate and television-radio receipts but the games only paid a part of the bill.

A spokesman for the organizing committee of the Italian Olympic Committee said Monday income from the games amounted to $4,300,000 in ticket sales—a record gate far surpassing the $3,000,000 take at Helsinki—and $1,300,000 dollars in fees for television and radio rights.

However, the Italian government is taking $1,200,000 in taxes, leaving a net income of $4,400,000.

The Italians paid more than 30 million dollars to build stadiums, roads and other facilities for the games. But these expenses were written off as capital investment since the stadiums, roads and Olympic village will be municipal assets for a long time to come.

Italian organizers say they figure the cost of actually staging the games at $6,400,000. This is the bill for such expenses as wages for employees specifically hired for the Olympics, the printing of Olympic programs, the arranging of transportation and press facilities, etc.

The wealthy Italian Olympic Committee, which paid much of the cost for the stadiums, will fill the gap. It will have little trouble. It reaps about 18 million dollars a year out of a weekly soccer pool.

Hearts As Well As Marks Broken

ROME (AP) — Romans Monday took toll of the 17th Olympic Games and found the world's major sports spectacle had broken almost as many hearts as records.

With the big exodus swinging into high gear, hotel keepers counted their take and many found themselves in the red.

The rush of business confidently predicted before the games opened Aug. 25 never materialized. Hotel rooms were relatively easy to get throughout the Olympic period. Restaurants and sidewalk cafes were rarely more than half filled. The big anticipated profits just never happened.

The Olympics are generally conceded to have scared away at least as many people as they attracted. Fears of crowds, high prices and too much revelry kept away many elderly tourists.

Top Racers To Headline Midget Card

READING — A band of heavy-footed ARDC-USAC M110 Offenhauser drivers, including such stars as Bert Brooks, Bobby Marshman and Reading's Ernie McCoy, will headline the Reading Fair's midget auto racing program tonight at the Fairgrounds.

Brooks, of New Britain, Conn., winner of the 1959 Fair feature, will be one of the heavy favorites for the 30-lap main event.

Action gets under way at 8:15 o'clock with the first of three eight-lap heats. The card also includes a four-lap match race between the winners of the heats and a 10-lap consolation.

McCoy, having one of the finest years highlighted by a quartet of wins at Hatfield, Pa., and Marshman, winner of the 300-mile race at Trenton, N.J., loom as definite threats.

So does Bill Randall, of North Reading, Mass., the No. 2 man in the current point standings. Brooks is the leader.

One Death, 2,236 Hurt In Olympics

ROME (AP) — Officials Monday counted a toll of one dead and 2,236 injured during the 1960 Olympic Games. Fifty-four of the injured required hospitalization.

The death was that of Danish cyclist Knud Enemark Jensen, who collapsed during a road race on Aug. 26.

V. Way's Dad

Johnston Wins

Wall Finishes In 2nd Place

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Billy Johnston of Provo, Utah, normally an erratic putter, earned an eight-footer for an eagle on the final hole Monday and won the $20,000 Utah Open Golf Tournament with a brilliant 8-under-par 63.

That gave him a 22-under-par 262 for 72 holes for $2,800 first money.

Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., who had the lead with a 195 going into the final round of the four-day, 72-hole affair, shot an even par 71 Monday for a 266 total and fifth money.

Engle Sad But Squad Looks Good

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Rip Engle, gray-haired coach in his 11th season at Penn State, is a study in traditional coaching pessimism although the Nittany Lions are rated among the top 20 in the country in pre-season forecasts.

How does the team shape up for its opener against Boston University Sept. 17?

"I don't know," he says rather sadly. "We've had so many boys hurt. We only had 40 boys working out."

"There hasn't been anybody showing sparkles."

"(Roger) Kochman hasn't run a play; (Henry) Oppermann (team captain) hasn't run a play."

"Right now, I don't know who's going to play quarterback. (Dick) Hoak has been injured with a bad hand."

Hoak, a halfback last year, has been switched to quarterback to help fill the gap left by Richie Lucas' graduation.

"Usually you see some bright spots, but I don't," Engle went on.

"We're about average size, average speed; maybe a little bit bigger than average, but not nearly as big as Pitt or Syracuse."

The Lions meet Pitt Nov. 19, and Syracuse, national champion last year, Oct. 15.

"The key is if you have one or two guys who can break a game open," Engle says. "Kochman figured out to do that for us, but he hasn't even been able to work out."

Kochman has an injured knee.

"We're plenty worried about Boston," he commented.

Engle was asked about end Bob Mitinger and guard Bill Popp, whom some State followers pick just never happened.

"Right now they've been reading their clippings," Engle replied. "There sure hasn't been anything sparkling about their performance. Mitinger has only been an ordinary ball player so far."

Engle has 16 lettermen returning from last year's team, which won nine of 11 games, including a victory over Alabama in the inaugural Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia.

Trio Wins Kart Races

GARY FISHER, Tommy DeRenzi and Bill Getter, won the only races run at the Pocono Kart Course Sunday in a rain-shortened card.

Fisher, of Newton, N.J., won the Junior A-Bushing race, while DeRenzi of Stroudsburg took the Junior Modified title.

Getter, Matamoros, was the Senior A-Bushing winner.

The match race between DeRenzi, the leading junior driver and Gene Faatz, the leading senior pilot, was postponed until next Sunday.

Sheehan Denies Giants Feuding

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Manager Tom Sheehan, the jovial manager of the San Francisco Giants, said Monday "as far as I'm concerned there's no feuding on this ball club."

Sheehan made that statement to the Associated Press after being told there were published reports in San Francisco that pitchers Sam Jones and Jack Sanford were "angry" because they were being taken out of ball games.

"How about that," Sheehan said. "I know how the report probably got started. We were playing in Cincinnati the other night and Jones was pitching. We were behind 2-1 in the eighth inning and had a man on first and Jones was due to hit."

Pinch Hitter
I took him out for a pinch hitter and we got the runner advanced to second base. The runner later scored and we won the ball game. Jones was a little burned up but that's life. Later I gave him permission to leave the club at Cincinnati and go to his home in Monongah, W. Va. There's no feud as far as I am concerned."

No Complaints
Sanford said he had no complaints with Sheehan or Sheehan's managing.

Bob Stevens, San Francisco Chronicle sports writer reported Monday from Pittsburgh that a feud is brewing between Sam Jones and Tom Sheehan.

He wrote Jones had screamed at Sheehan, "How the hell can a guy win 20 games if he gets taken out?" and later howled "How can I pitch for that man (Sheehan) when he hasn't any confidence in me?"

Cards 19th Victim Of Braves' Spahn

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Warren Spahn, aided by big Joe Adcock's home run and double, pitched the Milwaukee Braves to a 4-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Monday night.

The win, Spahn's 19th against nine defeats, left the southpaw only one game away from his fifth straight 20-victory season. Now in his 15th full major league season, he has 286 triumphs.

He has beaten the Cards often more than any other club and now owns a career record of 58-33 against them.

Adcock put the Braves in front in the second when he hit his 23rd homer after Wes Covington was hit by a Bob Gibson pitch.

Covington started another two-run burst in the fourth with a walk. Adcock doubled him to third base and Covington scored on Cottier's sacrifice fly. Spahn chased Gibson with a double which scored Adcock. Bob Miller and Ronnie Kline held the Braves in check the rest of the way.

The defeat, which gave Gibson a 3-6 record, trimmed the Cards' second place lead over the Braves to a single percentage point. The Redbirds are 7 1/2 games behind the league-leading Pittsburgh Pirates.

Nicklaus Wins 'Am' Golf Opener

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Husky Jack Nicklaus, 4 up after five holes, scrambled for his life before beating Jack Donohue of Des Moines 1 up Monday as he opened defense of his National Amateur Golf Championship at the tricky St. Louis Country Club course.

The pink-faced blond from Ohio State, youngest champion ever when he won the amateur at Colorado Springs last year at the tender age of 19, had to come from behind on the last three holes after starting out as if he intended to chase the 38-year-old Iowa insurance man off the course.

A curling four-foot putt on the 16th pulled him even, and he put away the pressure-tinged match with a clutch five-footer at the 18th after they had halved the 17th hole.

"I was lucky," Nicklaus said as he walked off the last green. "Seems like every match for me in the amateur is 1 up or never settled until the last green. Boy, I was lucky."

Monday's 72 winners go on to second round competition Tuesday, together with 56 from the bulky field of 200 who drew first round byes. Included the group drawing byes were two-time champion Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, who lost to Nicklaus in the 1959 final at Colorado Springs; former British amateur champion Bob Sweeney and two-time NCAA champion Dick Crawford of the University of Houston.

Strangely enough, in this tournament of upsets, form held up fairly well Monday.

One upset was scored by Fred Kammer of Detroit, who was 2 under for 17 holes in whipping veteran Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson 2 and 1.

Billy Joe Patton, the ol' North Carolina scrambler, won the 16th and 17th holes to beat Truman Connell of Tequesta, Fla., 1 up, and Jim Jackson of Kirkwood, Mo., whose 69 was the best complete round of the day, beat Terry Wilcox of Ada, Okla., 2 up.

Two former champions, Dick Chapman of Oosterville, Mass., and Harvie Ward of San Francisco, won easily.

Chapman, the 1940 champion, was two under par for 15 holes in polishing off Ed Preisler of Cleveland 4 and 3 and commented:

"I can win this thing. I'm playing the best golf I've played in 15 years."

Ward, still a putting master, sank a 10-foot putt for a birdie on the 15th, a key five-footer for a halve on the 17th, shot a 72 and bested John Owens of St. Joseph, Mo., 1 up.

"I can win, too," said Ward, who won the title in 1955 and 1956.

Nicklaus may have been lucky, but he also was tough under the heaviest of pressure.

Donohue, four-time Des Moines open champion, found himself all but out of it almost before he got the kinks worked out of his back-swinging. Nicklaus won the second through the fifth holes to go four up and still led three up at the turn, which he hit in a 1-over-par 36.

Then the bespectacled Donohue went to work. He chiseled away a stroke with a par on the 11th, another with a 20-foot putt for a birdie duce on the 12th. He pulled even on the 576-yard 13th with an 18-footer for another birdie.

After they halved the 14th, Donohue's birdie in a putt came through for him again. A 15-footer and he had a bird 4 on the 500-yard 15th. Now he led the defending champ one up with three holes left.

Back came Nicklaus to pull even with a par on the 188-yard, par 3 16th as Donohue hit a trap and then two-putted. They halved 17 and both missed the green on their approach to 18.

Donohue's blast from a sand trap was long, however, and Nicklaus took advantage of the opening — chipping up to within five feet. After Donohue's 35-footer missed wide to the left, Nicklaus rammed in his putt for the victory.

Nicklaus had a medal score of 74-3 over par, while Donohue shot a 76.

Two other strong threats, Ward Wettlaufer, Walker Copper from Walke Copper from Williams-ville, N.Y., and Western Amateur Champion Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., played well in advancing.

Wettlaufer was out in par 35 before eliminating George Swift of Columbus, Ga., and 2, Aaron, Although having trouble seeing because of a smudge on a contact lens, sank putts of 10 and 50 feet and was 1 under for 17 holes in beating former Kansas U. full-back Bill Hogan of Overland Park, Kan., 3 and 1.

On the foreign list, Australian open and a m. t. f. champion Bruce Devlin lost 2 and 1 to Bill Stewart, two-time Missouri Amateur champion from Springfield, but Capt. P. G. Selhi, the Indian champion from New Delhi, was 1 over par in eliminating Ed Hopkins of Abilene, Texas, 4 and 2.

Some People Never Learn

Dear Abby: A relative of mine has been in the hospital for several weeks and I have been a constant visitor. There is a nurse there who is the most amazing creature I have ever seen. She can't be over five feet tall and, Abby, she must weigh 300 pounds. I have never seen a woman so fat! Her arms and legs look like they are about ready to burst. When she walks down the hall she waddles like a duck and the building literally shakes. (Old building — wooden floors.)

Doesn't a woman who has studied anatomy and nutrition realize how unhealthy and unsightly her condition is? And why on earth don't some of the nurses or doctors who work with her daily put her wise? SIMPLY AMAZED

Dear Abby: Maybe they've tried. Many people who are overweight have been teased, kidded, scolded, jolted, warned and lectured about their excessive blubber, but nothing works. They stuff themselves because they're miserable and they're miserable because they stuff themselves. Sometimes it takes a head-shrinker to shrink the rest of them.

Dear Abby: Many years ago I lied about my age to get a job. I was 16 and claimed to be 21 because I needed work, looked older and could get away with it.

Well, I'm sorry now because I am going with a man who works where I used to work. He saw my application form which says I am 29 when I am really only 24. He is 25 and he thinks I'm too old for him. How can I convince him that I lied then but am telling the truth now?

NEEDS PROOF

Dear Abby: Show him your birth certificate. That'll prove you weren't born too many years ago.

Dear Abby: If you see this letter, please don't use my name or initials. I am in love with a man who has been trying for six years to get a divorce. His wife keeps telling him she will "think it over." She has been "thinking it over" for six years and he is no closer to getting his freedom now than he was six years ago.

He has to live at home for appearance's sake. Every time he mentions divorce she sobs all over him about how much the children need him. We love each other, Abby. We aren't kids I am 28 and he is 44. And we are both healthy, normal people in love. What do we do in the meantime?

HIS TRUE LOVE

Dear Love: Nothing.

Dear Abby: Tell the bride who was bothered because her neighbor across the hall burnt her husband's toast on purpose she ought to try it herself. I eat my toast burnt black and like it that way. It's good for you. Absorbs stomach gases — just like charcoal. "MAC"

Famed Plastic Surgeon Dies

LONDON (AP) — Sir Harold Gillies, dean of Britain's plastic surgeons, died yesterday at 78. He had made plain women pretty, given aging actresses back their beauty, and mended the faces of about 10,000 war-shattered soldiers.

Among his patients was ex-King Leopold of the Belgians, whose face injuries were healed by Gillies after an automobile crash in 1935.
